FAITH AND MEDICINE

We are all impacted by the choices we make, friendships we share and life experiences we encounter. Each can and do have a long-lasting impact on our lives, good or bad. For Dr. Hugh Scott Moore, attending Holmes Community College in 1991 was one of the best decisions he ever made. "There's no doubt that Holmes had a huge impact on my life," said Dr. Moore, who was the recipient of the Dr. Samuel Massey Scholarship for those students pursuing a medical degree. "The stress of finances was completely off my shoulders and I could focus solely on my studies."

Coming from a small rural private school in Benton, Holmes was a perfect fit for Dr. Moore. "Every single one of my instructors were very personable. I felt as though I could go to them with any problem I may have and they were all willing to bend over backwards to help me. Going from that type of atmosphere to Mississippi State, where you either got it or you didn't was a huge change for me." During his time at Holmes, Dr. Moore was very active on campus. He was in the Holmes Connection!, an officer in Phi Theta Kappa, and the Theatre honor society.

After his two-year stint at Holmes, Dr. Moore continued his education at Mississippi State University. Following graduation from State, Dr. Moore was accepted to The University of Mississippi Medical Center, where he graduated and completed his three years of residency. Dr. Moore decided to head back to the place he knew and loved, home, joining a family practice in the hills of Yazoo City and to this day remains there.

Dr. Moore enjoys photography and traveling in his spare time but his true passion lies in the mission field. "While I was actually at Holmes, I did mission work in Mexico with Dr. Massey and my passion only fueled from there," said Dr. Moore. "It is truly fulfilling to serve those who genuinely need and appreciate any medical care they receive." Dr. Moore has visited Haiti and Peru on several mission trips as well and it is his faith that makes him stand out in the field of medicine. "I have never made a move without the Lord telling me which way to step. My practice is built on my faith in Christ and I am very proud of that."

Holmes was a stepping-stone for Dr. Moore, a very important one. The foundation that was laid here, helped shape a man who is now serving Christ, healing the sick, and spreading the gospel.

CAPITAL CAMPAIGN NEARS END

Holmes began its largest capital campaign in the history of the college in May of 2011 and is on target to meet the $11 million goal by May 2016 with your continued support.

The campaign is focused on specific projects throughout the district including mobile training schools, program expansions, technology enhancements and upgrades, facility expansions, and student scholarships. Funds will and have provided assistance for expansion of nursing and allied health programs, remodeling of the Attala facility, a new nursing facility in Grenada, athletic facility improvements, and the expansion of training in many of our workforce trade skills.

In addition to physical expansions and improvements, the capital campaign has helped students by providing scholarship money to those who may not be eligible for other aid. For the year 2015 alone, over $75,000 in student scholarships was awarded. Many "mini grants" have been awarded to groups and organizations on campus. These grants have funded instructional materials, nature labs, technology software, and continuing education for faculty.

We encourage you, our family, to continue your support of our precious alma mater. Gifts can be made in the form of gift annuities, charitable remainder trusts, stocks, real estate, cash gifts, life insurance or retained life estate gifts. If you have any questions or would like to continue your annual giving, please contact the Development Foundation by contacting Diane Harman by phone at 662.472. 9017 or through email at dharman@holmescc.edu.

HOLMES ALUMNUS FINDS CAREER IN MUSIC

Matt Hines, a 2010 graduate of Holmes Community College and a native of Kosciusko, has made a career from his love of music.

During his two years at Holmes, Hines was a member of the choir, Connection! show choir, Coachmen Singers, Montague Men, Phi Theta Kappa and named to the Dean's List for his academic accomplishments. He enjoyed performing with some of his best friends. "I loved being able to travel with all the groups I was in," Hines said. "I thoroughly enjoyed dorm life and making some great friendships that I still have today."

Hines completed his degree from Mississippi State University and is now a music educator at Northside Elementary in Clinton. He is also praise leader at First Baptist Church in Flora and teaches guitar, voice, piano, recording/performing, and artist/songwriting for a private studio.

In 2011, Hines began a duo with fellow Holmes alumnus, Jon Richard Crowell. The two performed various gigs eventually adding a third member and becoming Cotton Row. In 2012, the trio opened for Randy Houser at a local benefit.

Hines recorded and released three singles in 2013; "Base it on a Feelin'", which won the songwriter competition at the Cotton District Arts Festival and landed him an audition on NBC's The Voice. He's also released "As the Crow Flies" and "When You're Gone".

Hines has been surrounded by some big names in the music industry. "I recorded and released my EP "Things Are Looking Up" in the summer of 2014. During that experience, I had a great time recording with phenomenal players and learned a lot through my stay with Jimmy Metts (former manager of Reba McEntire's label, Starstruck Entertainment). My good friend Doug Crowell from Kosciusko was the producer on that album. It, too, has garnered me many interviews and opportunities."

Hines' most current venture, the band Thaddaeus Hines & The Black River Saints, is slated to be his favorite so far in his career.

"It's comprised of some extremely talented guys I have been blessed to have enter my life," Hines said. "Cody Logan (insane drummer who has toured with a Christian band throughout the southeast region), Zach Dickerson (phenomenal guitarist who has played at The Grammy Awards with DMI Allstars of Delta State), John Thompson (ASCAP Competition winner), and the newest member Jacob Speckner (bassist for numerous MS bands and student minister in Bentonia) are just overall amazing people." The band is working on releasing a two-part album in September 2016 and January 2017.

Hines and his wife, Laura, a 2008 graduate of Holmes, reside in Bentonia with their son Noah and are expecting a new baby boy this August.

FACULTY STAFF ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT

Carla Ross, Grenada Campus Librarian

Carla Ross graduated from Holmes Junior College in 1979 and made her mark during her two years on the Goodman Campus. Miss HJC, Homecoming Maid, Freshman and Sophomore Favorite, Hall of Fame member, and Civitan Club officer are just a few of her accomplishments as a Bulldog.

Ross met her husband, Ken, at Holmes. He was a standout basketball player while Ross was a member of the cheerleading squad. Her father, Carl Cooper, served on the Holmes Community College Board of Trustees for 31 years. Ross' mother and father were both educators and she followed close in their footsteps graduating from Delta State University in Elementary Education. Thankfully, Ross' career path brought her back to Holmes as librarian of the Grenada Campus. During her 10 years at the Grenada Campus, she has enjoyed helping with various Phi Theta Kappa projects such as obesity, cyber bullying, recycling, and Shop Grenada First. These projects required in depth research in order to develop a solution to the problem at hand.

Ross believes these projects ignited her passion for research and she has since branched out and tackled many personal research endeavors. Her most recent project, sponsored by the Holmes Development Foundation, was "Glenwild: The making of the 1920's 'Show Place of the South'".

Ross enjoys teaching the students who come through the Grenada Campus Library how to connect the dots and research properly. "I throw my heart into everything I do," said Ross. "One of my favorite parts of my job here, is helping the students learn more about research and what the Library can do for them."

Carla and Ken have two children, one grandchild and reside in Grenada.
