

WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT AT HOLMES COMMUNITY COLLEGE

The D. P. "Pat" McGowan Workforce Training Center, located on the Ridgeland Campus, is a $8.5 million workforce training center designed to meet the increasing demands for business and industry training.

The 50,000 square-foot center features a multi-media room with audiovisual equipment for presentations that will seat up to 150 people. In addition to the MMR, open classroom spaces, a multi-purpose laboratory, and a conference room that will seat 20 are available for businesses to utilize at a nominal fee.

In FY 2013, approximately 25,000 individuals received training through Workforce Development at Holmes Community College.

The Workforce Training Program is designed to provide contract training in a non-credit format for individuals and businesses. Courses are designed to meet specific training requirements of the company or the organization. This training may be in one or more of the following areas: training for workers on new equipment or processes, retraining for workers who must move to other positions within the firm, training for workers to advance to higher positions, and/or training in the basic skill areas for employees to become more effective and efficient. A variety of state, federal, and private funds are used to provide these cost-effective, efficient classes for individuals and businesses throughout the district.

Courses are designed in specific areas that will educate employees in today's continuously changing world of technology. It is our commitment to serve the business industry. Services currently offered include but are not limited to:

- Pre-employment Training
