

Sizemore to receive Special Service Award

Steve Sizemore will be recognized for the Special Service Award this spring. The Special Service Award is an honor Holmes occasionally bestows on an alumnus or non-alumnus who goes above and beyond in service to the college.

Sizemore has been exceedingly generous with his time and contributions to the sports programs at Holmes over the years. As owner of the Longhorn's Steakhouse in Newport, he has graciously provided numerous catered meals for the athletes.

The Longhorn's Steakhouse is famous for the steaks, which Sizemore cooks himself along with his locally, celebrated steak sauce. When the restaurant opens on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights, it can be difficult to find a parking place. A person can order just about anything, from fried mushrooms to hamburgers to ribeyes, and will not go away hungry.

Sizemore has been cooking for many years and learned his way around the kitchen from his mother. Originally from Cleveland, he started out grilling around the house with some friends, which snowballed into entering bar-b-que competitions.

Sizemore married his wife, Stacie, who is from Newport in 1994. Stacie is a Holmes alumna who continued on to earn a B.S. from the School of Pharmacy at the University of Mississippi. The Sizemores have three daughters: Alex (23), Cassidy (20), and Rylee (15).

In 1995, they opened a steakhouse restaurant in Kosciusko, later relocating to where the restaurant stands today. The large, drawing area for the restaurant has contributed to the Longhorn Steakhouse's success, in addition to catering corporate events like the National Wild Turkey Federation Banquet.

In 2008, the restaurant was closed following a devastating fire, but Sizemore steadily continued to cater events for his patrons. In 2013, Sizemore rebuilt and reopened the restaurant, where the tables were full again with loyal customers.

When Sizemore's oldest daughter enrolled at Holmes, he became more involved with the college. As his love of the college continued to grow, he started cooking more often on campus, especially for the athletic teams.

Sizemore has shown his love for Holmes by opening up his restaurant on Tuesday nights in the fall to host the "Jeff Koonz Radio Show" from Longhorn's. Prior to beginning the radio show, Sizemore was also instrumental in the Alumni Association's Wild Game Dinners held in the late 1990s.
